Sidney Cox Gives Poets Advice And Criticism In Address Here

By George Reynolds

"If you like my speech, why don't you buy my book? It won't help you much but it's a good book."

Sidney Cox, Dartmouth critic and teacher of creative writing, began the introduction of his 50-minute address last week with those words, and finished the introduction just 43 minutes later.

"There aren't enough of you here," he stated. "I want to speak to all the future poets and writers of America, but I don't think they're all present."

He wanted to tell these future poets something—that anything which is not wholly true is a lie. Yet, he said, all truth is ambiguous and poetry is no place for logic—it may ramble wherever it pleases, within reason.

Poets should learn, he said, that the poet's mind is superior to the scientific one because it grasps things beyond the realms of science. And to dispel any inferior feeling toward scientific thought, a hopeful poet should master science.

POETIC JUSTICE: Robert P. T. Coffin, noted poet who is on campus this week, presents the Kern staff the award decided appropriate by the recently formed Society for Critical Analysis of Collegiate Journalism. Mr. Coffin had no criticism to make of the paper, other than to suggest a few changes in the staff.

Robert P. T. Coffin Stresses Importance Of Youth In Poetry

By George Reynolds

"The only time my family had extra spending money was when my ancestors were whalers, and before some skunk in Pennsylvania discovered the black, slimy substance that put them out of business."

So spoke Robert Peter Tristram Coffin in the first of many appearances on the UK campus this week. The famous poet, biographer, and historian referred to his Quaker ancestors who filled their old Maine home with curiosities from all parts of the world and stocked the library with classical writings, including the big family Bible.

Reading them, he began to love poetry at the age of six, and has never lost his childhood devotion to it. But, she said, he gradually learned that the real poetry wasn't found in far-removed times and places, but near to home, in the common things of the back yard and barn.

Spring Is Poet's Season
In "How to Make a Willow Whisker" poet subjects—a small boy, a girl and spring. "Spring is the poet's season," he said, "but I'll admit I'm not the first to notice it." The scene of the poem is a country schoolhouse—just after school. "I've found," he said smiling, "that no creative thing can be done just before school. At that time, I always feel like a man who has slipped on the ice and has not yet hit."

Mr. Coffin, the 1936 Pulitzer Prize winner for poetry, colored his reading of his poems with a sly Yankee wit that tells much of his personality and the sort of writing he likes. Most of his poems are of ordinary things, simply written. He believes that poetry should be crystal clear—the simplest language of the universe.

Yet the moaning winds of the Maine seacoast have made their mark on him. There is a strain of melancholy and loneliness in some of his work, and he believes that it should be there. "There is not enough loneliness in the world now," he said.

Court Orders UK To Admit Negro

Pi Tau Sigma Pledges To Wear Traditional Garb

By Rosemary Hilling

Color will be added once again to the busy halls of the College of Engineering this morning.

A group of 26 Pi Tau Sigma pledges are now happily arrayed in locomotive engineer's caps and bright red bandannas. They are wearing large cardboard earmuffs, emblems of Pi Tau Sigma, suspended from the neck by an azure and murrey colored ribbon. A large Pi Tau Sigma key dangles from the waist to the knees.

Pledges Must Write Themes
These "openminded" pledges are busily engaged in seeking the autographs of the mighty Pi Tau Sigma actives on the back of the cardboard earmuff. In the meantime, they are thinking of plans for the 500 word themes they are required to write on improvements for the mechanical engineering department.

The pledges were announced yesterday at the engineering assembly. A Pi Tau Sigma pledge must have a 1.8 standing, and show special interest in mechanical engineering. It must be a member of the junior class.

An initiation banquet will be held on April 7 at 5:15 p.m. in the Y lounge of the SUB.

Pledges Listed
Pledges are W. A. Bauman, P. E. Burke, J. F. Gaines, A. H. Caudill, J. L. Craig, C. S. Fergus, C. L. Frazer, W. G. Kappa, J. R. Line, A. R. Maddox, A. R. Mander, C. P. Martin, R. G. McCoy, M. M. Lyman Johnson Wins Case In Federal Court

Negroes must be admitted to the University of Kentucky Graduate School, Federal Judge H. Church Ford ruled this week.

Judge Ford said the testimony showed facilities at Kentucky State College at Frankfort were not equal to those at the University.

His ruling came after Lyman Johnson, Louisville Negro, asked the court to give him judgment on the facts of the case.

Judge Ford said "Until the state shall establish a graduate school substantially equal to the graduate school at the University of Kentucky, it must admit Negroes on the same basis as whites."

Most of the testimony heard concerned a contract made last July between the University and the Kentucky State College for Negroes at Frankfort. The contract provided that University instructors would travel to Frankfort to teach any subject taught at UK but not taught at KSC. It also provided that Negro students would be allowed to use the University library and laboratory facilities not available at KSC.

The contract was made after Johnson filed suit when UK would not admit him to graduate classes in history last summer.

Testimony was admitted on UK-KSC cooperation because it would indicate what facilities would be available to Johnson if he wanted to attend school under the plan.

Dr. Herman L. Donovan, upon questioning by Assistant Attorney General M. B. Hollifield and Guy L. Dickinson, said the school intended to carry out the contract "in good faith." Dr. Donovan testified in behalf of the University along with Dr. M. M. White, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, and Law College Dean Elvis Stahr Jr.

Dean White testified Negro and white students received the same education "as far as I know." He said he had no request for a history course under the contract, but if such a request were made he would assign teachers to the classes.

Dean Stahr told the court he and five other professors "drove our own cars to Frankfort to teach for half a semester." He said the group recommended that the board of trustees hire other teachers because schedules were fixed before John Hatch, the Negro law student, entered the school and the teachers had to teach him in the late afternoon and the burden of travel on the faculty was great.

He testified that "if the Frankfort law school is considered as a separate school," it does not meet the requirements of the American Association of Law Schools, of which the UK school is a member.

A large group of UK law students attended the hearings.

Robert Estill Wins Oratorical Award

Robert Estill, Arts and Sciences senior from Lexington, was judged winner of the Patterson Literary Society oratorical contest, Mar. 25.

"About this date tonight, honey — April Fool!"

Court's Decision Welcome

One of the most practical and satisfying things that has ever happened at the University was the federal court's ruling Wednesday to admit Lyndon Johnson, a Negro, to the Graduate School. The Kentucky State College-UK commuting arrangement was an impactful evasion of the graduate school problem, and the court's decision has permitted a sensible, direct solution to the situation. Now all Kentuckians who want to do graduate study will have access to the best that the university offers them. The court's decision is one which we believe most UK students will welcome.

Barnstorming?

Are the four senior Wildcats leaving next week for the first of a barnstorming series aren't they? And if they are, is anything to be done about it? No doubt these athletes, having fulfilled their obligation on the University squad, are free agents. But it does seem that the proposed series, following so closely on the national amateur tournaments, is certainly in highly questionable taste. As one of the most prestigious assemblages of amateur athletes that ever played, naturally the Cats have been open to questioning remarks from many outsiders about their status. You know and I know that the boys were students at UK, attended classes, did their work conscientiously, and that everything was strictly above-board. But others, including notably the Big Nine schools, with their so-called purity complex, are always alert for instances to prove that they're right. Somebody is always eager to throw mud at a champion's reputation. In their innumerable eager embrace of professionalism, these seniors will create an impression in the minds of outsiders that will last a long time. The use of a downtown agent in booking their games does not help the looks of things. Besides damaging the luster of Kentucky athletics, the proposed series will add to the stature of the University itself. There have been plenty of remarks all season about the number of out-of-town trips the players necessarily had to take, and plenty of us have been asked, "Do they ever go to school—or is that a prerequisite for graduation at Kentucky?" They probably spent no more time away from classes than many other college teams, but again, there's that love of detracting from champions. Of course they went to class; of course they kept up with their work; of course they will meet graduation requirements. Moreover, they will probably play the barnstorming games on weekends. But most outsiders won't understand that, and the impression created will linger. If the seniors are going into professional basketball, as most of them will, the money they make from it will be well-deserved, for they are great athletes. But it does seem as if they could wait until June to start barnstorming, since they have been representatives of the school for so long. Of course, they probably have a perfect right to do as they wish. But it is to be hoped that the University will take a stand on the matter. Or is the tail wagging the dog?

When Vladimir Horowitz, the pianist, gave a recital not long ago in Indiana University's Sycamore Hall, there was at least one sincere admirer in the crowd.

During the reception following his performance, Mr. Horowitz became slightly confused when a proud student displayed a handful of prune seeds instead of the usual autograph.

We have just finished eating another one of those repulsive nauseating catastrophes called meals at the Little Commons Cafeteria, and we think that it is time something was said and done in regard to the matter. After eating the food served at the Little Commons, which few do with much regularity, we have tossing, rolling stomachs that feel as if they might regurgitate at any moment that which we have choked down.

Too often after buying what appears to be palatable food, upon tasting the food it is found to be of such a nature that it cannot be used for human consumption. Tonight, stuffed peppers were served. It is usually customary to find a stuffed pepper stuffed with hamburger. However, the stuffed peppers tonight were stuffed with some inferior grade of canned meat which might have been bought at an Army Surplus Depot or at a "dog food" market. The spinach that was served had such a vile taste that no human could possibly eat it and digest it. Invariably, the innocent, good tasting potato is prepared in such a way that it is obnoxious to the palate and to the stomach. As simple as the potato is to prepare so that it will be tasteful, why it must be ruined in the Little Commons' process is beyond us. Heavens only knows the other dishes that are prepared and served and sold that only tend to frustrate instead of satisfy the appetite.

We believe that we have reasons to complain. We also believe that those who have eaten at this cafeteria will back up our descriptions of the foods, and that they will witness that we have not overly exaggerated the situation. True, we can eat at other places, (which we are forced to do through necessity) but we feel it a shame that the University should continue and maintain a cafeteria whose food is of such inferior quality without making any apparent efforts to better its standards.

Sincerely yours, and hoping that something is done, but quick!

INDIGESTION, ULCERS,
PTOMAINES, and HEARTBURN

Dear Editor:

There are three elements necessary for entering a Campus Sing: a wise selection of material, a director who knows a little about music and who is willing to work hard and learn more about it, and a good fraternity spirit. The men's groups selected first and second in last week's competition had these three things and no more.

I refer to the editorial in last Friday's Kernel virtually accusing all participating groups in the Campus sing of having hired professional coaches. This is an untruth, at least so far as Sigma Nu and Delta Tau Delta are concerned.

These two fraternities have long been having a "battle of music," and have had at their respective helms undergraduate students who, through interest, have come to know and understand music. They have been willing to work hard in learning more about it and in inspiring the interest of those members of their respective chapters who could at least carry a tune.

This does not mean to imply that all other groups were professionally tutored—about that I do not know, and I care less. I do want to praise the other four organizations who entered the contest. At least they showed that they had enough interest in their fraternities to represent them in this activity.

As for the other dozen or so fraternities on campus, may I elaborate upon the first paragraph. First, any of the several local music stores will be happy to assist you in your choice of music. Second, the library is filled with books on conducting and choral techniques and the music department has a course in this open to anyone, or any local choir director will be pleased to give an inspiring song leader helpful pointers. And third, your fraternity spirit is something that, if you don't have, you'd better get if you want your chapter to last very long.

Respectfully,
JACK FEIERABEND,
Delta Tau Delta

The editorial also stated "many groups don't use it (outside help) in the sing." If this applies then don't get excited. Ed.

Dear Editor:

I just started working on the duplicate bridge tournament the Union is going to give, and I just found out not many people either can or will play.

What's the matter? It is just simple fun—that is if you can play. Why not sign up—if you know how to play.

BRIDGE FAN

Dear Editor:
When the basketball team came back the other day, guess how many students were there to welcome them?

Well, I didn't count them, but I should say offhand the townspeople outnumbered the students about three to one.

What do you think of that? I'll tell you what I think. I think that when the team is winning it is the students' team, but when it loses, it is rarely, drops a game, the students would just as soon let somebody else claim it. Not that the townspeople aren't faithful fans, and why shouldn't they be, being sports-minded and with all the business the team brings in, but if more students don't show up next time, there's something rotten on the campus. J. Q. S.

Editor, Dearie—

I don't know what the deal is on that report that a sociology prof is requiring of his students, but it sounds like Kinsey to me. It seems like a dip at a girl's personal life. It's terrible! Ain't we got no rights???

Although I ain't done nothing to be ashamed of, I would blush to fill out that report you described in the "marriage and family" letter last week. Cheeze, it's just shocking and unadulylike.

Central Kentucky Art Exhibition Shown In Funkhouser Building

By George Reynolds

It's only 20 steps from science to art on the UK campus, regardless of what your professor's been telling you. That's the distance between the first and second floors of the Funkhouser Building, where an exhibit of Central Kentucky art is in session.

To begin, show me two people with the same ideas about art, and I won't throw the editorial "we" into its hypocritical ashen again. Right now, I don't want to blame more than one of us for what I thought, so blast me for an egotist.

The 55 paintings on display were chosen by three professional judges: Robert M. Coffin, dean of the Cincinnati Art Academy; Ulfer Wilke of the Louisville Art Center; and Frank Long, a Beres artist. The paintings were selected from 80 entries from Central Kentucky artists.

Old And New Trends Shown

Three tempera and gold panels by Viktor Hammer, who used medieval methods such as including an egg in his paints, depict the oldest style of the group, while several ultra-modern creations of lines and colors show the latest trends of art.

The wide range of style is striking. Virgil Espenlaub's "Omnibus Image" is a brilliantly-colored impressionist's view of a shattered church. Another outstanding impressionist painting is "Basketball" by Clifford Amxy, with the man with the ball in a frustrating tangle with two other players.

Especially realistic are the paintings of horses by Allen F. Brewer Jr. and Milton Menasco, in which line details predominate.

Frank L. McVey adds more impressionist views in his little sketches of the seacoast.

Differs With Other Critics

All these were adequately appreciated by judges and art department critics alike, but several of the paintings which drew less praise interested me more.

The sparkling little portraits by Doris Rannells seemed full of life, especially "Anne." William Welsh's "Kentucky Babe" is among the most appealing works in the show.

But the one picture, entirely unmentioned in press releases, that I'd like for myself is "Amber Glow" by Gladys McAdams. It's clarity of color impressed me greatly, so I asked an art student about it. He said the colors were static and didn't move against each other or something.

But I picked one—and you can, too, any time before April 3.

The Spice Of Life

We got news for you—spring isn't sprung because the Sigma Nus haven't started to use their himeulars yet. Or have they? How rural can they be?

Bain Foster has taken quite a shine to foreign languages. How do you say "Bunny" in French, Bain? Joan Pritchard is having a great time playing the field these sunny days. It's definitely over with Vermont.

Jo Hall was in town last weekend. He pulled a quikie at Skitch Henderson's shindig by sneaking out to call Ruth McCracken.

The Sig Eps were the first to break the ice at Boonesboro. The weather may have been a little cool, but it didn't keep Mary Lou Long, Joe Gordon, Clyde Spears, Sara Bennett Thomas, Ralph Shelby, and Yo-Yo Coulter from having a fine party.

Jack Darlington has gone head over heels for Elma Kirkpatrick. This is super use of the word "heel," referring to his sudden lapse of memory last weekend. He's had the pink eye—but after he sees this, "I'll probably be the "red I."

The Sigma Nus are the only frat men to have three phones in their house. Junie Albrecht, Robert Earl Clements, and King Rice all have private wires these days.

Wallace Horine and Louise Curry are together all the time now.

Pat Conway was stood up and we have reasons to believe it was Joan Rodde's fault. Both are cycling the same Kappa Sig. There's nothing like loyalty to your own sorority sister.

As constant as the day is long! Betty Bogess and Kent Hollingsworth; Honey Honeywell and Charlie Smith; Sara Beam and Bonnie Baker; Peggy Liddleover and Mae Morris.

We predict smooth sailing for Carolyn Glenn and Joe Campbell now, even though it has been rough. How can Roy Wallace be spending most of his time with Marion Stone when Betty Heiss can't make up her mind between him and Billy Griffin? Glad somebody can be choosy!

Lois Cheek, Bob Carter, Mary Powell Geiger, and Joe Newell hung over for a few days after their trip to New York.

"Sugar Pie" is unspinned and dating again.

Will another triangle turn up since Gene Deskins dates Judy Stevens Saturday night?

Another Spice flash: Lois O'Brien finally got her Harvard man to a formal dance.

Dixie Walker had a hard time listening to the game Saturday night.

Bob Nikolas had gone into the taxi business—but for Kappas only. Charlie Oakley has really been getting around lately.

Charlie Pritchett had a long face during a lonesome weekend. Monie finally got back from Portsmouth, but the minutes were hours.

Hoskins camp was the scene of a great party with lemonade, chaperones, and everything else. Another gay party was progressing happily in Louisville. Bob Hardy ended up in an embarrassing position!

Dave Davidson is using his Oklahoma draw to lasso Mary Lou Hatfield.

The Sigma Chis have adopted Jack Malone. Incidentally Jack wishes the University of Virginia were located on the west coast!

Hint to the Pi Kap house manager: Why don't you make Don "Wimpy" Wilson pay for two meals each time he eats?

Marilyn Bauer goes for the Sigma Chi chapter in a big way. She's dating about eight of them now. The dress she wore last Friday night brought the long awaited results from Dal Thorpe.

Ted Bates is out to show Woo McCauley the time of her life. There's been a strong revival of the old Friday afternoon club in the Cottage. Looks like a Pan-Hell meeting.

Al Prewitt announces that he is not chasing the Kappas. He's engaged to Sarah Seoby in Winchester.

Owen Lewis is looking dangerous these days. Wonder who will be next on his list?

Mouse Seaman is now singing "Body and Soul." That's short for Betty Ann Stoll.

Bill Pritchard has made quite a hit at the KD house in his new role as bus boy.

Amy Price is definitely in the "Line" light these days.

Phi Dels threw quite a party at the Boonesboro Boat Club, but Bert Pollack wasn't there, so it lacked the usual twang.

What girl has John Blankenship been raving about for the last three weeks? His latest statement: "She's a Queen."

Don Scharden has been monopolizing direct lines to the Theta House. Betty Bryant is the reason. Elkins Payne rode around in clouds and a big black Buick all weekend. His pin bearer, Phyllis Rau, hiked up from Brenau College to see him.

Joan Kavanaugh plays tricks on her big sisters in a very innocent way.

Sheri Folger's car trouble caused three gals to be late. A housemother wanted to know where Jack Womack's date was, but he just didn't seem to know. Moose Gorham lost his date too.

Mary Alice Mayer is back from Florida, and she looks most alluring with that sun tan.

Boz Todd and Robin Griffin have a lot in common. Nancy James is the name.

Stokes sported Harriett Spaulding at the Sigma Chi lake affair. Peake Shelton and Dick Beck had a big ole happy time too.

Betty Green's newest hobby is fishing in the rain. Think you'll catch anything?

Add Jim Long and scratch Earl Sirla from the list of Dusty Rhodes. By the way, Dusty, when did you meet Barkley Sturgill?

We bet no one has noticed the red bud in the botanical gardens. Ha!

Competition is getting stiff between Buddy and B. L. Kessinger. How does Martha Bishop do it?

Pinned: Lou Ayres and Howard Benjamin; Marion Mason and Ida Manchikes.

A gal named Sue has caused Lawas McClure to have dizzy spells. What about Ben Jackson and Dale Barrett as a pair? Constantly, that is!

Engaged: Katherine Winebringer and Robert "Snake" Simmons. How many fellas can a girl have, Neen Schlegel?

Georgetown College holds Betty Nash's reason for going home every weekend.

Unpinned: Nancy Shinnick and Walter Patrick; Elinora Potter and Jimmy Stewart.

Ex-student Lewis Hammonds has been scouting for a shapely blonde since he broke up with Jane Ingels. Anyone interested?

Phil Kingsbury is going for Betty Hilliter's short haircut in a big way. Free demonstrations on "how to jump rope" are being given by Conley Congleton.

We neglected the pinning of one of the cutest couples on the campus. Bill Wanamaker pinned the white star on Buff Alford right after initiation.

Pat Campbell was here last weekend for Bill McClure and the AGR formal. Chubby Smith had a date with the "Sister" Sylvia!!

Rachel Johnson and Paul Lennox teamed up to form a very odd two-some.

Unpinned: Doll Price and Johnny Crockett; J. W. Davis and Mary Ann Hunter; Bobby Estill and Joyce Haynes. And, scoop, the Cottage is closed for the weekend. Well, it's April fool, isn't it?

The slogan "Remember the Main" was originated by a group of pipe-fitters during the Chicago Haymarket Riots.

Society To Hold Open House

The UK Bacteriological Society will hold its annual open house Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the Funkhouser Biological Sciences Building.

The tours will feature a display of the Keene-land Foundation Electron Microscope and demonstrations of classroom and research projects currently being carried out in the department. The film, "Man Against Microbes," will also be shown.

The public is invited to attend the open house. Refreshments will be served.

Tau Beta Pi Initiates Honored At Banquet

Initiates of Tau Beta Pi, engineering fraternity, were honored with a banquet at the Phoenix Hotel Monday evening.

Dr. George K. Brady spoke on his recent trip to Japan. A program of magic was presented by William Birdsall, student in mechanical engineering.

Forty initiates were honored at the banquet.

Engineers To Sponsor Spring Dinner-Dance

An informal dinner-dance sponsored by engineering students will be held tomorrow evening in the SUB from 6:15-12. Tinker Baggarly and his orchestra will play for dancing.

The dance is being sponsored by the senior engineering class. Bill Kendall, president, and George Baxter, social chairman, are in charge of arrangements.

Students from any college on campus are invited to the dinner-dance. Admission is $1.40 per person.

Sigma Chi Fraternity Elects Bill Benjamin

Bill Benjamin is the new president of Sigma Chi. Other officers include Gibson Downing, vice president; Bob Boulter, secretary; Dave Davidson, treasurer; Don Seaman, tribune; Joe Ed Mainous, associate editor; Gil Whittenberg, pledge trainer; and Isaac Rouse, house manager. Sigma Chi has initiated Tom Alexander, Chase Allen, Bob Calvert, Hugh Card, Dick Haas, John Helme, George Lawson, Jack Moon, Ray Myers, and William Pritchard. Card Players Idle The Time Away, In The End It's The Devil To Pay

When you sit down to a game of bridge, one of the more popular indoor sports of the University, do you ever stop to think of the time that is spent per semester in shuffling the pasteboards?

According to a survey among college students here at the University, it was found that the average student spends about 15 hours a week at some type of card game.

Multiply that number by the eighteen weeks in a semester and you get 270, or the number of hours spent by the individual at card playing per semester. Multiply that number by 9000, the number of students enrolled in the University (in round figures) and you get a total of 2,430,000 hours passed idly away over the card tables all over the campus.

Probably the greatest contributing factor to this total is that societies occasionally hold open house. At the door you are met by a host of smiling faces.

As soon as you get out of your coat, you are presented with a deck of cards, a scoring pad, and the inevitable "You do play bridge, don't you?"

Dr. Clark's New Volume Surveys Influence Of Post-Civil War Press

Influencing and reflecting public opinion during the period 1865 to 1900 by Southern country newspapers is the subject of a study "The Rural Press and the New South" by Dr. Thomas D. Clark, head of the Department of History of the University of Kentucky.

Country editors exercised more influence on Southern society than is generally realized, the author says. Most of them were aware of their region's shortcomings and campaigned actively for improvements in the poor transportation system which they regarded as the primary cause for the South's isolation. The editors called for a greater respect for law and order; better school systems; programs for attracting industry to the South.

Read Bible and Newspaper

Editing a country paper in the post-Civil War period was a serious responsibility, Dr. Clark emphasizes. Thousands of subscribers never read any other printed matter except the Bible, he writes, and their sense of the world about them was derived almost entirely from their weekly paper.

Country editors assumed a progressive point of view toward the future of their region. Their more thoughtful editorials, says the UK historian, reflected a sense of justice and a genuine desire to improve the rural press during the period.

He feels that the influence of the rural press during the period should not be measured in terms of the slowness with which improvements appeared. The true merits of community journalism of that day lie in the slow and patient way in which it brought society to bring about changes of its own accord.

Newspaper Influenced Public "Whatever progress resulted, and whatever attitude the Southern community adopted toward his community responsibilities as a citizen in a democratic society, he was influenced in that attitude by the country paper," concludes Dr. Clark.

ARMY DAY - APRIL 6

Intrasquad Grid Tilt Carded For Saturday

By Dudley Saunders

Kentucky's gridiron Wildcats play an intrasquad exhibition game tomorrow night at 7:30 at the Paintsville High School field. The fray is the first of four week-end clashes scheduled for Kentucky cities by the Wildcats during April.

The Cats will journey to Madisonville, April 9, and to Louisville, April 23, before returning to Lexington for an archrival encounter on Stoll field, April 29.

Purpose of the exhibition tour, according to Head Coach Paul Bryant, is to give football fans in various sections of the State an opportunity to observe the Kentucky team first hand in pre-season training. The tour also is expected to inspire the players to perform at their best and thus provide the coaching staff with a better idea of the potentialities of the candidates.

Climax of the tour and marking the conclusion of spring training, the Wildcats will split up for the annual Blue-White game here on Stoll Field, Friday night, April 29.

Spring training got under way March 7, with more than 80 huskies vying for berths on the team. At the present time there are 78 men on the varsity squad and six freshmen on the practice squad.

Fourth Year For Bryant
Bryant recently stated that no position on the team had been vacated yet, nor would be vacated until game time next September. He declared that "We hope that these exhibition games will give us a picture of the capabilities of both individuals and team units and show how strong or weak we are."

He seemed pleased with results of spring practice so far, although the frequent bad weather and poor conditions of the field has prevented the progress he had hoped for.

Bryant, incidentally, is starting his fourth year as head coach. In three previous seasons his teams have won 20, lost 9, and tied 2.

Uliniski Elected Captain
Center Harry Uliniski, Ambridge, Pa., was elected captain of the 1949 Wildcats eleven this past week by the football lettermen at the University. Guard Dick Holway was named alternate captain.

Although hampered by injuries the past two seasons, Uliniski is rated a good pivotman. He played quarterback as a freshman, but was shifted to center to utilize his size. He stands six feet, two inches, and weighs 196 pounds, and is especially strong on defense.

Holway, also a senior, hails from Youngstown, O. He came to Kentucky on his own accord, tried out for the team, and soon worked his way into the scholarship ranks by his spirited play. Barring mishaps, he is an almost certain starter next fall. Last year he was a defensive stalwart.

This is the first year since Bryant came to Kentucky that a senior captain has been selected prior to the beginning of the season. Usually an acting captain is named before each game and then an honorary captain is named at the end of the season.

Odlivak Most Improved

In an interview Wednesday morning, Bryant singled out End Nick Odlivak as the most improved man on the squad. The six foot, 190 pound Allegheny, Pa., senior, who has played almost every position on the field, has been playing the best ball of his college career this spring at left end.

Johnny Meihaus, Louisville junior, is probably the most improved man in the backfield.

Coach Bryant went on to name more than a dozen sophomores who have already served notice that they are contenders for starting berths.

Three Good Quarterbacks

He was high in his praise for three quarterbacks, Babe Parelli, Ed Vaneek, and John Deuk Parelli and Deuk were capable performers last fall with the fresh eleven, but Vaneek's greatly improved showing this spring came as a pleasant surprise to the coaches. These are the "big three" hopefuls for the job as field general of the 1949 Wildcats, with Parelli barely getting the nod.

Two halfbacks, Paducah's "Phantom Phil" Foster and John Lawson have also been showing plenty of savvy.

Moseley Stands Out

In the line Doug Moseley has been outstanding. He'll probably be Uliniski's understudy at the pivot next fall. Bob Martin and Bob Legacki, two more centers, have been improving constantly and assure Kentucky of plenty of depth at that position.

Bryant has a probable starting guard in John Ignarski, a hustler on both offense and defense. He also mentioned Baldwin as being greatly improved at that position.

Bill McKenzie and Frank Fuller have shown promise at tackle. At the terminals, John Netoskie and Jim McConaughy look like the best of the sophomore crop.

Veterans Back

Coach Bryant wouldn't go out on a limb as to what positions are pretty well sewed up, but a check of the roster reveals that veterans are back to defend their positions in the left half of the line and all the positions, except quarterback, in the backfield.

Bryant may use different men on offense and defense at right end. Don Frampton has stood out as the best offensive end, but Walt Yowarsky and Jim McConaughy both look good on defense. These three will probably share that position.

Bill Bolter and Shorty Jamerson have a good hold on the halfback slots they occupied last year, and either Lee Truman or Ralph Genito look like the men to beat at fullback.

HARRY ULINSKI, senior center from Ambridge, Penna., was named this week as captain of the Kentucky Wildcat football team for the 1949 season. Uliniski is considered one of the best linebacksers in the Southeastern Conference and will be a key man for the Cat gridgers this fall. He came to UK in 1946 as a quarterback. For the past two seasons he has been used at the center position. Dick Holway, senior guard from Youngstown, Ohio, was named as alternate captain.

UK Nine Rounding Into Shape; First Game One Week Away

By Kent Hollingsworth

The Wildcat baseball team was able to hold the best workouts of this spring early this week as the weather cleared temporarily.

Pitchers got in some good throwing and batters looked at curve balls for the first time this season. Last year's leading hitter and shortstop, Johnny Stough, reported to practice Tuesday and began hitting the ball hard and far immediately. Walt Hirsch, regular first baseman a year ago, also turned in his baseball uniform for some baseball spikes.

The infield is beginning to take shape, with Dick Ramsey and John Crosthwaite on third, Stough at short, sophomore Johnny Mayes at second, and lefty Walt Hirsch at first.

Pitchers divided up batting practice chores this week, all doing 25 minute stints on the mound every third day. With the opening game one week off against Georgia Tech in Atlanta — Ray Mignerey, Frank Tucci, Al McCleod, and Ray Wise, man look like they will be able to carry the hurling load.

Outstanding in hitting practice this week were Dick Ramsey, Walt Hirsch, Roy Turner, Bob Henne, and Allen Hamilton.

The team is now working out on American Legion Field and is scheduled to play all their home games there until the conclusion of spring football practice, around May 1st.

Legion Field is now in the process of having its face lifted. The right field fence is being moved back to 340 feet.

Home plate is being dug out of the mud and moved several feet out to give catchers lost of leg room, and the mound is being moved over to make a straight left field line of 280 feet. The infield has been dragged and most of the bog holes have been dried by a bright spring sun.

The Cats have scheduled a game with T.P.I. for April 18th, and two more games are being sought with Murray and Western, to round out a six-day Easter vacation trip that centers around games with Vanderbilt, on the 15th and 16th.

Shortage Of Teachers To Remain Acute For Years, Spain Says

Kentucky's teacher shortage is likely to remain acute for many years, according to UK professor Dr. Charles R. Spain, head of the University's Bureau of School Service.

In a report released by his bureau he writes that only a sharp improvement in the real income of teachers, better working conditions, and acceptance of the right of teachers to lead normal lives will induce enough young people into the teaching profession to adequately staff the state's schools.

"Practices in Kentucky range from isolating teachers from social contacts in the community to making unreasonable demands upon their time for community functions," he adds. "Neither extreme is conducive to good teaching. So long as we bar teachers from leading normal social lives we will continue to have a shortage of teachers except during economic depressions, when people are driven to accept any kind of employment available."

Bad Living Conditions Cited

Dr. Spain also blamed undesirable living conditions in many Kentucky communities as another factor in the present teacher shortage. Well-trained teachers have experienced the inconveniences of modern living, he said, and few of them will accept positions where they cannot obtain comfortable, attractive quarters, well-cooked, balanced meals, and wholesome recreation.

In the very near future, Dr. Spain says, Kentucky will need 24,000 teachers, which is 5000 more than the present number, to take care of steadily increasing enrollments.

That this will not be easy is seen from the fact that the state currently is training only enough teachers to replace the average annual turnover.

Neither is the problem a purely quantitative one, he reports. Of the state's 19,000 teachers, nearly one-fourth are teaching on emergency certificates. And only two-thirds as many young people are preparing to teach now as in 1941, he adds.

The most decisive step that could be taken to remedy the present shortage is to boost the salary scale, Dr. Spain points out. Surveys show that where the real income of teachers is one and a half times that of the average wage earner, the supply of teachers is abundant. However, in 1947 teachers' incomes were only three-fourths that of the average wage earner.

Average Annual Salary Is Low

Average annual salary of Kentucky teachers in 1947-48 was $1894.75, in contrast to the national average of $2550. Even worse, the state is expected to drop further below the national average during this year. So he explains Kentucky's steady loss of teachers to states with higher salary scales.

His same principle of migration operates within the state as well. Dr. Spain writes, where school districts which pay low salaries lose their trained teachers to districts with relatively high salaries. Inevitable result of this practice is that many areas of the state must rely on inadequately trained teachers.

TRACK

By Earl L. Conn

The UK Wildcat track team was preparing this week for its first dual meet of the season April 9th at Cincinnati after participating in the Purdue Relays last Saturday.

George Kirchner paced the Wildcats at the Relays as he placed second in his heat of the 1000-yard run and fifth in all heats. A new meet record for the event was set by Bob Thomason of Michigan as he ran the distance in 2:20.4.

In all, four meet records were broken, and one American record was tied by the trackmen at the Relays.

Garlon Campbell, Michigan Normal, raced over the low hurdles in :06.8 to tie the record set in 1946 by Harrison Dillard of Baldwin-Wallace, Michigan Normal set a new meet record for the college medley distance relay, finishing the event in 10:55.5 while Don Laz, Illinois, topped the pole vault with a 14-foot 1 5-8 inches jump.

Tony Dallas and Guy Weeks gave excellent showings in the hurdle events, but they were matched against the top collection of hurdlers in the past few years at the relays.

The relay distance medley team from UK did not place. The team was composed of Carr, Prainan, Kirchner, and Griffith.

Meanwhile, Coach Don Seaton announced that Johnny Meihaus and Ralph Genito will be available for both the Cincinnati and Vanderbilt meets. They will be used in the dashes. He also added that Don (Dopey) Phelps will probably be used in the Vanderbilt meet if he can be released from spring football practice for the event.

Norm Klein reported to the team Tuesday night and Coach Seaton said he will add much needed strength to the sprint events. He will probably be used in the 100-yard dashes.

Coach Seaton added that Paul Gunsten, Frank Smotherman, and Roy Rector are expected to carry the weight in the discus and shot put events. He added that Walt Yowarsky will also be used in these two events after spring football practice.

GOLF

By Terry Tipton

An unexpectedly strong Vanderbilt golf team walloped the University of Kentucky five, 13½ to 4½, last Saturday afternoon on the Lexington Country Club links.

Marvin Lear was the only winner for the Big Blue in the dual matches with the boys from Nashville.

However, Johnny Owens, pacer-maker for UK the past two seasons, and Craig Wright, No. 3 man this year for the Cat linksmen, teamed up to tie the foursome low ball points, 1½ to 1½. The Owens and Wright combine was 37-34 for a total of 71.

Marshall Traummell was the best for the winners. He finished with a 73 to defeat Owens, one-up.

The summary:
Vanderbilt 13½, Kentucky 4½.

First Foursome

Trammell (V) 73, defeated Owens (K), 74, 3-1.
Grisholm (V) 79, defeated Wright (K), 82, 2½-1½.

Second Foursome

Lear (K) 79 and Robinson (V) 79, tied, 1½-1½.
Laggett (V) 78, defeated Asher (K) 82, 3-0.

Vanderbilt won low ball, 3-0.

Inspiration of the poem — an old lantern.

Since Mr. Coffin has written 35 books and received an impressive list of honors, there should be little surprise at his activities while on the campus. His schedule, arranged mostly by himself, became a maze of lectures, addresses and luncheon dates that left his associates awed. But he proved that, as Dr. Spivey said in introducing him, "He is probably more deeply rooted in American culture than any other man."

Cats Claw Cowpokes, 46-36; Win NCAA Championship

Led by Alex Groza, the Kentucky Cats won their third national championship in four years by whipping the Oklahoma A & M Cowpokes, 46-36, in the NCAA finals at Seattle, Wash., last Saturday night.

The Big Blue beat the "Slowpokes" at their own game, that is, by throwing up a terrific defense which allowed the men of Coach Hank Iba only two field goals in the last 20 minutes of play.

The Cats outscored the Aggies 16 field goals to nine; the losers collected 18 free throws in 23 attempts while Rupp's Raiders hit for 11 in 19 chances.

The game, which was played before 12,500 people in the University of Washington's Edmondson Pavilion, was featured by the great play of UK's 6-7 pivotman Alex Groza who scored 25 points on nine goals and seven gratis shots. It was he who broke the back of the tough hoppers from Aggie land. Groza scored 15 of UK's 25 first half points; and then scored 10 of the 21 Kentucky collected in the final half.

Alpine Alex played just 26 minutes. He was rested for eight minutes early in the second half, and then returned but fouled out later with six minutes remaining.

Groza and Walt Jones, who played a fine defensive game, held the mercurial Bob Harris, 6-7 center of the Aggies, to just seven points. Harris, rated as one of the best defensive centers in the game today, fouled out with the count 30-21, UK, attempting to stop the huge Hungarian.

In addition to Groza and Jones, Ralph Beard, Cliff Barker, Jim Line, Dale Barnstable and Walt Hirsch all turned in outstanding performances, committing few mistakes especially on the defensive side.

Only Jack Shelton, 6-6 forward, was able to make over 10 points for the Aggies.

As a result of the victory, Kentucky now becomes only the second team in history to have copped the NCAA championship twice. A & M was the other, winning the title in 1945 and 1946 during the era of Bob (Pothills) Kurland. The Cats won the crown in 1948 in addition to this year.

The triumph furnished a brilliant finish for the "Fabulous Four" of the Kentucky team — Groza, Jones, Beard, and Barker who are all seniors, and who will have graduated before another season rolls around. The victory also atoned for the 37-31 loss to the Aggies in the 1946 Sugar Bowl game at New Orleans.

In gaining the finals against the Cowpokes, Kentucky defeated Villanova, 85-72, and Illinois, 76-47, in the Eastern NCAA playoffs in New York City.

The scoring:

| Kentucky (46) | (36) Oklahoma |
|---------------|----------------|
| Jones (3) | F (2) Yates |
| Line (5) | F (3) Bradley |
| Groza (25) | C (7) Harris |
| Beard (3) | G (7) Parks |
| Barker (5) | G (12) Shelton |

Reserves: UK, Barnstable 3, Hirsch, 2. A & M, Jaquet 1, McArthur 2, Pilgrim 2, and Smith. Halftime score: 25-20, Kentucky.

THE NCAA BASKETBALL CHAMPIONS

Pictured above is the Kentucky Wildcat basketball squad of the 1948-49 season, which last Saturday climaxed the season by winning the National Collegiate Athletic Association championship at Seattle by beating Oklahoma A & M, 46-36. Acclaimed by many as the greatest college cage team of all time, the Wildcats finished the campaign with a record of 32 victories as against only two defeats.

Cuff Notes

The All-Intramural basketball selections were announced last week. Of the four teams that went to the semi-finals of the tournament, only the Kappa Sigs had a player named on the All-Intramural quintet. That was Ben Zaranka.

Since the Kernel sports staff felt that the top teams must have had the best candidates for an all-university team, we undertook a poll of various coaches and players last week and the results of this Kernel poll was:

One of the players for Coach Rupp tomorrow night in the East-West game will be Yale's Tony Lavelli, who recently broke George Milkan's record of scoring the most points in college ball. This season, in 30 games, the sharpshooting Italian has scored 671 points for an average of better than 22 per game.

Doc Wall, coach of Breck Hall, champions in the intramural cage competition for this past season, and George Vanderweyden, mentor of the Delta Tau Delta fraternity team, were named as "Coaches of the Year" in their respective leagues by the IM Board. The Delta team went to the semifinals before losing out to Breck Hall, but later copped the fraternity league crown by defeating the Kappa Sigs, 43-40. Breck Hall took the K Club, 31-29, in the intramural finals.

The Wildcat baseball team opens the season next Friday, playing Tech there in Atlanta. Another game is scheduled for the following afternoon with the same school. The following week-end they play two games at Vanderbilt. The Cat diamonders will make their first home appearance on April 22 against Charlie Tripp's hard-hitting Georgia Bulldogs.

Information Please?

The Associated Press sent out a wirephoto which was carried in many newspapers throughout the country this week showing Coach Adolph Rupp, Alex Groza and Dale Barnstable in the dressing room after the Wildcats had defeated Oklahoma A & M in the NCAA finals at Seattle.

Rupp is doing a victory dance with his arm around the neck of Groza. Barnstable, who is standing on the right of the picture, is giving out with a broad smile.

Harme is fully attired in his basketball togs except he is standing barefooted, which caused a character from Burlington, Vermont, to write us the following note:

"Last Monday, one of the newspapers here in New England ran a picture of Rupp, Groza and Barnstable. It showed Barnstable wearing no shoes. A group of us here would like to know if some of the Kentucky players play basketball in their bare feet. We had heard that only Wa Wa Jones plays without shoes. How many others now beside Jones and Barnstable play barefooted, and isn't it pretty tough when somebody steps on their feet during a game?"

Piedmont golf course has announced a reduced rate for morning use of the links, according to Bill McCubbin, IM director. Any student in the university may use the greens of the course for only fifty cents provided that he plays in the morning. This special fee is designed to ease the congestion which occurs later in the day.

Softball, Tennis and Golf
Today is the last day to enter a softball team in intramural participation, or to land a berth in golf or tennis matches.

A three-dollar fee will be charged each softball entry, which will consist of 18 men. The names of these players should be turned in when the team is entered in the records.

Due to a record number of entries in the basketball tourney, registration of each fraternity will be limited in golf and tennis. Four singles and two doubles will be allowed each fraternity. The fee for each individual in either sport is twenty-five cents.

The play in softball, golf, and tennis, weather permitting, is due to get underway Tuesday, April 5.

Bowling
This week, to fraternity teams have battled it out in an elimination bowling tournament each afternoon from 4 to 6 p.m., in Colonial Bowling Lanes in Euclid Avenue.

The finals of this fraternity branch of the bowling tourney are scheduled this afternoon at 4 o'clock. Teams were advanced by single elimination following scores of total pins for three games.

The 10 teams entered are: PSK,

LXA, SAE, PKA, SN, KA, DTD, ASP, SPE, PDT.

The winner of this fraternity division will play the independent "Hotshots" this coming week for the UK bowling title. This play will consist of the score of the total pins of six games based on a handicap.

Badminton
With 171 entries in the badminton singles tournament, and 81 teams in the doubles, and only four courts to play on, Bill McCubbin has arranged contests every night from 8 to 10 p.m.

A match takes approximately 30 minutes. This means 32 matches per night. For the past week, men have been slashing at the birdie in the singles, and Monday night the doubles teams start their play.

Two and one-half weeks will be required to complete the play in both singles and doubles if everything goes to perfection.

Participation Points
Up to the present time, Sigma Chi leads in group participation with 120 points. Delta Tau Delta is second with 103, and Sigma Alpha Epsilon ranks third with 85.

Harry Gorham (SX) with 44 points is first in individual participation with Charles Hoffman (SAE) second with 34.

These points include: touch football, tennis, golf, and D, golf, S and D, volleyball, ping pong, free throw, wrestling, and basketball.

DisKintucky Sports Review

— By Tom Diskin, Sports Editor —

The Wildcat basketball team came through in great style against A & M last Saturday night in perhaps the most crucial game that a Big Blue team ever played. A loss to the Aces would have been the signal for New York sportswriters, and others throughout the country, to criticize the Cats for entering both tournaments.

However, the famous tidbits turned in a brilliant game and captured the NCAA championship for the second consecutive season. As a result, the Ruppmen gained back a considerable chunk of the prestige lost in the Loyola disaster.

The victory helped prove that the fast-break is better than a slow-motion style such as used by the Cowpokes, often called the "slow-pokes" around the West. The win also clearly showed that Kentucky had a great, well-balanced team, excellent in both defense as well as offense.

In just one week, the Kentuckians beat the top team in the East (Villanova); then the best in the Big Nine (Illinois); and finally the No. 1 team in the country, the Big East of the Mississippi River (the Oklahoma Aggies). In the final Associated Press poll, A & M finished second in the nation; Illinois fourth; Villanova 14th.

The Wildcats ended up with a 32-2 record, the best in the country. Congratulations are in order to Coach Rupp and every member of the 1948-49 squad for a brilliant season.

One game that we will remember for a long time to come is the Kentucky-Illinois game last week in New York in the finals of the Eastern NCAA playoffs.

The Cats were favored to win by eight points. However they were right that night and really poured it on the helpless Illini to finish with a 29-point margin of victory. The final score, in case you have forgotten, was 76-47.

Possibly many ardent supporters of the Big Nine thought their newspapers had made typographical error on Wednesday morning when they read the final score of the game. How could any team beat a Big Nine school by such a score? Why, it just can't be! Maybe of Kaintuck used six players. Something must have been wrong up there in the Garden that night.

So peeved was the Illini coach, Harry Combes, after that horrendous defeat that he did not shake hands with Coach Rupp, as is the usual custom, according to one of the Kentucky players. Maybe they don't do this in the Big Nine when completely kill any football talk about the Big Nine being the best basketball circuit in the nation. You might recall that Michigan, which represented that conference last season, took a quick trip to the NCAA tournament, losing to Holy Cross in the first round, 63-45. The Cats beat H.C. later, 60-52, which is a differential of 25 points between UK and Michigan, if you want to look at it that way.

Getting back to Illinois, the Wildcats whipped the famed "Whiz Kids" during the 1943-44 season, 51-

FENCING

University of Kentucky fencers will meet the Vanderbilt University swordsmen tomorrow, in Nashville, for the second time this season. The first match with Vandy was held here February 19. The Cats scored a 10-6 victory over the Commodores.

Only the foil division will take part in this match as Vanderbilt does not have a dueling sword or sabre team.

Charles LeGette will spearhead the match, followed by Al Solomon, Doug Brown, and Sidney Neal.

The fencers will travel to Louisville on April 9 for a match with the University of Louisville and will complete the season with a match here on April 23 with the University of Cincinnati.

The hustle and the spirit of the Frisco team was largely responsible for their winning. Everytime a goal was scored by their team, each player on the bench jumped up to cheer. They never quit hustling a minute.

Jack Kerris, Loyola's center, is a junior. However, he told New York sportswriters that he will probably go to summer school and graduate this fall to join some pro team, probably the Stags. He is the only one that will be leaving the Ramblers as this season's team had 8 juniors and 4 sophomores on the traveling squad.

Alex Groza snapped back in sensational style after the Loyola game. He scored 30 points against Villanova in the first NCAA tilt; 17 against Illinois; and 23 in the Aggie contest for a total of 82 markers, who bettered the old record set by Oklahoma A & M's Bob Kurland of 76 set in 1945.

Incidentally, Kurland's high in 11 appearances in Madison Square Garden is 23, that coming in the finals of the NCAA against North Carolina back in 1946.

Coach Adolph Rupp placed third in the annual balloting of the New York Basketball Writer's Association for the title "Coach of the Year."

In another example of a poor system of selecting candidates, Oklahoma A & M's Hankus-Pankus Iba won, largely through getting 14 runners-up votes. The balloting was taken, of course, before the NCAA finals was played off.

In second place, although garnering the most first place votes, was San Francisco's Pete Newell. Iba had 77; Newell 74; and Rupp 22. Five points were given for each first place vote; three for second place nominations; and one point was allowed to a third-place vote.

Rupp someday might win this award, providing he can win five or six straight NCAA crowns. That's about what it will take for the N.Y.C. writers to vote him in.

Western Ky. fans were probably startled to see that Coach Ed Diddle, whose team won 25 in 29 this season, got nary a vote.

Isaiah McFish, early religious reformer who was driven out of Europe, is said to have settled near Lexington, Ky. A few descendants are known to survive.

Kentucky's Fabulous Foursome Features East-West Cage Fray

By Bob Cox

The fourth annual East-West All-Star collegiate game will be played in Madison Square Garden, New York, tomorrow night.

Four members of UK's great NCAA champions will form the nucleus of the team that will meet the best from the West in the game that benefits the Herald-Tribune's Fresh Air Fund. In addition, the team will be coached by Adolph Rupp, coach at the University for 19 years.

The Fabulous Foursome — Ralph Beard, Alex Groza, Cliff Barker, and Wallace Jones—accepted invitations last February to play in the game and have been working out in New York this week in preparation for the game with other members of the ten-man East squad.

This will mark the first time in the history of the game that any college in the country will be represented by more than two men. In 1946, the first game of the series, Frank Magliapane and Sid Tanenbaum of NYU were selected to play. That is the only other time that more than one man has been chosen from one team. But this year Coach Rupp and the other selectors could not possibly omit any one of the four men who have been the scourge of the hardwoods for the past three years. So all were invited to play.

Thus Rupp will have a practically ready-made unit to throw against the West squad. To that foursome he can add any one of his remaining six members — Dick McGuire, St. John's; Ernie Vandeweghe, Colgate; Saul, Seton Hall; Tony Lavelle, Yale; Warren Perkins, Tulane; Leede, Dartmouth — and have a starting five that would be formidable to any combination in the country.

For example, Dick McGuire was named New York City's outstanding individual basketball player this year. He is most renowned for his ball-handling, feeding, generalship and defensive ability rather than scoring punch. This six-footer led his team in scoring for the year with a 13.1 per game average. His play-making talents should be valuable to the team's outstanding shot-makers such as Beard, Groza, Lavelle, and Vandeweghe.

and left-handed hook-shot artist. He is a shiner on defense, too.

Courty is a six-foot three-inch offensive leader. He won the Big Seven individual scoring title last year. In addition he is a demon rebounder.

Both Courty and Parks are known in the West as game-spoilers. Both have made several astounding last-minute shots to snatch apparent victories from their opponents.

Macauley was chosen most valuable player in last year's NIT and is a prolific hook-shot artist. He hit over 50 percent of his shots this season.

One of the highlights of tomorrow's battle will be the individual contest between him and Alex Groza at the pivot position. In their last meeting in the Sugar Bowl contest, Macauley made 14 points to Groza's 13.

A good looking, completely waterproof, lightweight raincoat by Alligator (the biggest name in rainwear) comes in mighty handy. April is the rainy season and from all indications we are in for a goodly share of what California's chamber of commerce calls a "heavy dew."
